THE GET RICH QUICK $SCHEME

LOGLINE

Three students make a bet with their evil principal to succeed in business. Will they become entrepreneurs or will they fail?

SYNOPSIS

Mickey, Richie, and Ryan are three high school students struggling with grades, goals, and focus. Their families do not support their dreams and continue to force them to follow conventional education paths. Their high school principal, Mr. Wright regularly tries to catch them slacking and enjoys punishing them a little too much. After one particularly aggressive encounter, the boys make a bet that they can build a successful business in 90 days and if they win the bet, they graduate without doing any work, if they lose, they get detention for the rest of their school. As they make deals and negotiate to raise money to build and sell their invention, they each discover their own skills and how friendships can change or be destroyed by the idea and potential of success. How greed influences people to make choices they might not otherwise as suspicions and sabotage tear them apart. Can they sell and flip a car to make the money? Can they Scale their business to make the $1,000,000 Goal? Can their friendships survive the pressure? Will Principal Wright succeed in sabotaging their plan? Watch the comedy, drama, and painful growing up life lessons they all learn in this 80's style comedy.

DIRECTOR, Samuel L. Pierce

Samuel L. Pierce born May 8th 2006 in Auburn Washington. Is an American Actor, Director, Producer, and Writer. He founded Electric Shock Productions in 2019 with the goal of turning it into a Film Studio. His first feature film was The Future Of Us (2022) which was a dystopian sci fi film the movie was made for less than $2,000 and starred Samuel L. Pierce, Karl Anderson, and Armaan Khanuja. Quickly after the premiere of The Future Of Us (2022) he felt the need to make another movie a script which he had written in 7th grade with the assistance of Armaan Khanuja. The Get Rich Quick Scheme (2023) which began production on August 14th 2022. The film starred himself and Tyler Griswold, and Rex Nelson. He than spent months editing the movie and trying to really bring the best quality out of it. It was made because he felt there was so much negativity in the world that the world needed a comedy and a genuine clean comedy for kids and adults to enjoy. He is now currently working on his newest film Off the Line (2024) and is working on expanding Electric Shock Productions and getting the get rich quick scheme distributed in theatres.

Growing up Samuel L. Pierce was almost interested in film recreating stories of films at recess in kindergarten. When he was in 2nd grade at summer camp he met his film mentor Adam Brock who introduced him to film. Adam Brock would go on to mentor Sam for years to come. Samuel L. Pierce made his first film in 4th grade with the help of his friends in school after they turned a school project and made a movie instead of doing the actual assignment the movie was directed and produced by Samuel L. Pierce and sadly got deleted by the school over summer break by accident but he kept on making sequels and episodes in up to 6th grade. He then took a break after he left his private school and continued Lessons with Mr Brock. He then made the First short film that electric shock productions produced which was The Stalker (2019) mainly meant to get reel footage. He then continued to hone his skills and freshman year of high school launched the at the time "Short film" The future of us which than turned into a webseries which than was turned into The Full Feature film it is today.
